Schuler's 100th Year Kickoff Features Dueling Chefs!

MARSHALL, MI, March 16, 2009 --- The weather is getting warmer and it is also a sure sign that the official April start to Schuler's 100th anniversary is approaching. The heat is kicking up at Schuler's as the restaurant ramps up for its Centennial Celebration! To begin, a spring wine tasting and cooking demonstration enlisting "Dueling Chef's" will take place on March 24th.

Schuler's has long played a role in introducing the world of wine to the community. This centennial wine tasting will say much about the expertise over the years of Schuler's ability to introduce, inform and educate. There are many wonderful and affordable tastes coming out of vineyards today. Cooking demonstrations and performances are fun and popular. There will be a variety of wines, along with spring appetizers demonstrated, displayed and tasted by the participants. Executive Chef Phil Schuknecht and Jeff Samson, Director of Culinary Development will delight guests with the skills and flavors they will be presenting, as they go head-to-head in a culinary match up. This particular wine tasting and cooking demonstration will marry the two events with talents, skills and flavors into one experience that will prove to be wonderful and educational.

The "Dueling Chef's" wine tasting and cooking demonstration will be held on March 24th at 6:00 pm. Reservations were required for this event. This event has been sold out, but a waiting list has begun and be sure to stay up-to-date as these types of events are being planned and will be repeated in the centennial year.
